He stated that he does not remember the exact time today due to lapse of time. He stated that they remained in the hospital for about 2-3 hours and they came back to PS after getting the accused lodged in jail. He denied the suggestion that he is deposing falsely. He denied the suggestion that accused has been falsely implicated.

21. PW-10 ASI Sitaram deposed that on 29.10.2013 he was posted as Head Constable in PS Kalkaji and working as MHCM. He deposed that on that day on the direction of SI Samar Pal/IO of the present case he handed over sealed parcels pertaining to the present case to Constable Sheikh Riyaz vide RC no. 125/13 with the directions to deposit the same in FSL with forwarding letter. He deposed that constable Sheikh Riyaz took the sealed parcels to FSL and deposited the same in FSL and returned him road certificate and acknowledgement regarding acceptance of the case property i.e. Ex. PW10/A.

22. During his cross examination by Ld. Counsel for accused he denied the suggestion that he is deposing falsely. He denied the suggestion that he did not take any exhibits from the IO nor any were deposited with the FSL. He denied the suggestion that IO obtained his signatures on blank papers at the PS.

23. PW-11 Sh. Rajbir Singh, Medical Record Technician, AIIMS Hospital deposed that he is posted as medical record technician since 1995 in AIIMS Hospital and on receipt of the summon in respect of MLC No. 33872/97 dated 02.05.1997 of victim girl 'JD' D/o Sh. deposed that the MLC alongwith other medical treatment documents are Ex.PW11/B (colly) bearing her signature at point A while the MLC card is Ex.PW11/C which also bears her signature at point A. He deposed that Dr. Sunita Aggarwal has joined the services of AIIMS Hospital on 01.07.1995 and left the hospital on 30.06.1998 and her present address is not known to them. He deposed that as per record the victim girl was brought by Ct. Suresh Kumar with alleged history of sexual assault. He deposed that he identified the signatures of Dr. Sunita Aggarwal on the basis of her specimen signatures available in their record. He deposed that however, the medical record of MLCs have been destroyed vide order dated 24.05.2018 upto December 2007. He deposed that copy of the said order is Ex. PW11/D.

24. PW-12 SI Sheel Kumar deposed that on 06.02.2017 he was posted in PS Kalkaji and on the direction of SHO, MHCM handed over to him FSL report of the present case with the direction to file the same in court. He deposed that accordingly, he had filed the FSL report through supplementary charge sheet in the court alongwith list of witnesses.

Findings

25. I have heard the arguments advanced at bar by the Ld. Defence Counsel as also learned Addl. PP for the State, carefully considered & examined the evidence recorded in the matter and perused the documents placed on record by the prosecution in this case.

26. After hearing the rival contentions raised at bar as well as on careful scrutiny of the material on record, I am of the considered opinion that the prosecution has miserably failed to bring home the guilt against the accused.

Victim's testimony is absolutely shaky and unreliable

27. Though prosecution examined victim Ms. 'J' i.e. its star/material witness as PW1 who claimed that she was kidnapped and raped by the accused, however, her testimony does not inspire confidence, is full of loopholes and contradictions. Except for her sole testimony, which is far from being sterling, there is no material on record to bring home the guilt against the accused. There is no corroboration in the form of testimony of any eye witness nor there is any circumstantial or forensic or medical evidence on record which could render the victim's version believable and trustworthy.

28. The victim since the inception i.e. during the investigation as well as during the trial kept on shifting her stand and made contrary statements rendering it absolutely unsafe to believe her or to base any conviction upon the same. In fact the most important reason for giving benefit of doubt to the accused and acquitting him is the following statement of the victim made on 19.09.2016 during her examination as PW1:-

अनुप्रमाणित/ATTESTED

परीक्षक/Examiner

"I can identify accused, if shown to me.
At this stage, Chottu is shown to the witness through video link and after seeing him, the witness stated that as 18/19 years passed so she is not able to identify him as Chottu."

29. Hence the victim failed to identify the accused as the perpetrator of crime creating immense doubt upon the prosecution case. Though Ld. Addl. PP for the State requested that the accused be shown to the witness, face to face, however the witness refused to look at the accused. The relevant portion of the testimony in this regard is reproduced hereunder:-

"At this stage, Ld. APP requests that accused be shown to the witness face to face as due to passage of time he has changed physically and it may be possible that witness may identify him after seeing him face to face. The witness states that she does not want to see the accused face to face."

30. To establish the guilt of the accused it was incumbent upon the prosecution to establish his identity through the victim but as discussed above the victim failed to identify him thus rendering the prosecution story highly doubtful. In the absence of the identification by the victim there shall always be grave doubts that it was the accused who kidnapped and raped her.

31. Apart from failing to identify the accused, victim's admission qua document Ex. PW1/DA created more doubts as regards the actual factual matrix of the case. During her cross-examination one application dated 28.04.1997 was shown to the victim and she identified her signatures on the said application i.e. Ex. PW1/DA and claimed that same pertains to her. The relevant portion of the application dated 28.04.1997 is reproduced hereunder:-

> "1. That I am a young girl of about 17 years of age and my date of birth is 10.05.1980.
> 2. That the applicant voluntarily left her parental house on 19.4.97 because her parents used to harass her and beat her. The applicant left her house alone and went to Haradwar (Haridwar) at her own.
> 3. That the applicant remained in Haridwar all alone from 19.4.97 to 27.4.97 and came back to Delhi on 28.4.97.
> 4. That after reaching Delhi, the applicant has not visited her house as she was scared of her parents.
> 5. That the applicant came to know from her friend that the parents of the applicant had filed a case against one Shri Chhotu stating that Chhotu and myself run away from our house. The applicant does not know who is Chhotu and she has never contacted him (Chhotu).
> 6. That the applicant left away alone from her house and there was no other person with her."

32. Not only the victim but her father (PW2) also identified his signatures on the said application at point B. This application was got drafted through a counsel and filed in the court on 29.04.1997. If the said document/application is to be believed then victim had left the house on her own, on account of beatings given by her parents, she went to Haridwar and came back to Delhi. According to the application, she denied that she had run away with Chotu and rather claimed that she does not know who is Chotu and she has never contacted him. This application is itself sufficient to dismiss the prosecution case more so when during their cross-examination the victim as well as her father did not even once claim that the application was forcefully got written from them or that their signatures were forcefully obtained on the same. It was also not their case that the contents of the application are false or that same were not read over to them. When the victim/applicant claimed that she does not know Chhotu and as discussed above failed to identify the accused in the court as well as refused to look at him face to face, it shall be absolutely unsafe to believe the prosecution story that it was the accused who had kidnapped and raped the victim.

33. No doubt that after the above application was filed, notice was issued to the IO and the victim's statement u/s 164 Cr.P.C. i.e. Ex. PW1/A was recorded on 01.05.1997 wherein she claimed that she was taken by Chotu, who married her at his house and had sexual intercourse with him, however, the damage had already been done. Most importantly the identity of this Chhotu i.e. he being the accused shall always remain doubtful in view of Ex. PW1/DA and the victim's testimony wherein she failed to identify him.

34. Apart from the above there are other loopholes, contradictions in the victim's statement which further render her version highly doubtful. During her testimony she had claimed that accused had taken her to 2-3 places, before taking her to his village, but she failed to give the name of those places. Moreover she had not claimed in her statement Ex. PW1/A or the one recorded on 21.08.2004 u/s 299 Cr.P.C. that accused had taken her to 2-3 places before taking her to his village.

35. During her deposition she had also claimed that "perhaps they came to know that my father had made police complaint so they left me somewhere in Kachahari.....". Who are this "they" has not been explained either by the victim or the prosecution. As against this the victim during her statement Ex. PW1/A did not claim that the accused or "they" had left her at the Kachahari. Moreover during her testimony u/s 299 Cr.P.C. she claimed that one day landlord of the house at Delhi brought her and produced her in the court. Who this landlord is has not been explained by the prosecution or the victim. In fact the victim did not claim during her testimony, as recorded on 19.09.2016, that she had stayed at Delhi also. No address of Delhi, where she allegedly stayed was provided. Prosecution ought to have explained these facts, brought on record the particulars of the Delhi address and joined the landlord in the investigation as well as cited him as a witness. Not doing so creates further doubts upon the prosecution case.

36. During her cross-examination by Ld. Defence Counsel, the victim claimed that the house where the accused had put her, none of his family members were present and the persons who were present were relatives such as Tai, Mami etc. As against this, during her examination u/s 299 Cr.P.C. she had claimed that the mother and brother of the accused met her at the village, where the accused had taken & kept her and they appreciated the accused. These are material improvements, extremely inconsistent statements which further renders the victim's version highly unreliable.

37. It has been held in Santosh Prasad @ Santosh Kumar Vs. State of Bihar dated 14.02.2020 Criminal Appeal no. 264 of 2020 arising out of SLP (Criminal) no. 3780/18 as under:-

5.4.2. In the case of Rai Sandeep alias Deepu (supra), this Court had an occasion to consider who can be said to be a "sterling witness". In paragraph 22, it is observed and held as under:

> "22 In our considered opinion, the "sterling witness" should be of a very high quality and calibre whose version should, therefore, be unassailable. The court considering the version of such witness should be in a position to accept it for its face value without any hesitation. To test the quality of such a witness, the status of the witness would be immaterial and what would be relevant is the truthfulness of the statement made by such a witness. What would be more relevant would be the consistency of the statement right from the starting point till the end, namely, at the time when the witness makes the initial statement and ultimately before the court. It should be natural and consistent with the case of the prosecution qua the accused. There should not be any prevarication in the version of such a witness. The witness should be in a position to withstand the cross-examination of any length and howsoever strenuous it may be and under no circumstance should give room for any doubt as to the factum of the occurrence, the persons involved, as well as the sequence of it. Such a version should have co-relation with each and every one of other supporting material such as the recoveries made, the weapons used, the manner of offence committed, the scientific evidence and the expert opinion. The said version should consistently match with the version of every other witness. It can even be stated that it should be akin to the test applied in the case of circumstantial evidence where there should not be any missing link in the chain of circumstances to hold the accused guilty of the offence alleged against him. Only if the version of such a witness qualifies the above test as well as all other such similar tests to be applied, can it be held that such a witness can be called as a "sterling witness" whose version can be accepted by the court without any corroboration and based on which the guilty can be punished. To be more precise, the version of the said witness on the core spectrum of the crime should remain intact while all other attendant materials, namely, oral, documentary and material objects should match the said version in material particulars in order to enable the court trying the offence to rely on the core version to sieve the other supporting materials for holding the offender guilty of the charge alleged."

5.4.3 In the case of Krishna Kumar Malik v. State of Haryana (2011) 7 SCC 130, it is observed and held by this Court that no doubt, it is true that to hold an accused guilty for commission of an offence of rape, the solitary evidence of the prosecutrix is sufficient provided the same inspires confidence and appears to be absolutely trustworthy, unblemished and should be of sterling quality.

5.5 With the aforesaid decisions in mind, it is required to be considered, whether is it safe to convict the accused solely on the solitary evidence of the prosecutrix? Whether the evidence of the prosecutrix inspires confidence and appears to be absolutely trustworthy, unblemished and is of sterling quality?

6. Having gone through and considered the deposition of the prosecutrix, we find that there are material contradictions. Not only there are material contradictions, but even the manner in which the alleged incident has taken place as per the version of the prosecutrix is not believable."

38. In Suraj Mal Vs State (Delhi Admn.) AIR 1979 S.C. 1408 it has been observed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that "Where witness makes two inconsistent statements in their evidence either at one stage or at two stages, the testimony of such witnesses becomes unreliable and unworthy of credence and in the absence of special circumstances no conviction can be based on the evidence of such witness." Similar view was also taken in Madari @ Dhiraj & Ors. v. State of Chhattisgarh 2004(1) C.C. Cases 487.

39. In Namdeo Daulata Dhavagude and others Vs. State of Maharashtra AIR 1977 SC 381 it was held that where the story narrated by the witness in his evidence before the Court differs substantially from that set out in his statement before the police and there are large number of contradictions in his evidence not on mere matters of detail, but on vital points, it would not be safe to rely on his evidence and it may be excluded from consideration in determining the guilt of accused. If one integral part of the story put forth by a witness was not believable, then entire case fails. Reliance may also be placed upon Ashok Narang Vs. State 2012 (2) LRC 287 (Del).

10. The testimony of victim/PW1 is riddled with inconsistencies, improbabilities and having material improvements rendering the same unworthy of any credence or reliability. In Raju v. State of Madhya Pradesh (2008) 15 SCC 133, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that testimony of the victim of rape cannot be presumed to be a gospel truth and observed that false allegations of rape can cause equal distress, humiliation and damage to the accused as well. The Hon'ble Apex Court echoed the sentiments as under:-

> "11. It cannot be lost sight of that rape causes the greatest distress and humiliation to the victim but at the same time a false allegation of rape can cause equal distress, humiliation and damage to the accused as well. The accused must also be protected against the possibility of false implication, particularly where a large number of accused are involved. It must, further, be borne in mind that the broad principle is that an injured witness was present at the time when the incident happened and that ordinarily such a witness would not tell a lie as to the actual assailants, but there is no presumption or any basis for assuming that the statement of such a witness is always correct or without any embellishment or exaggeration."

41. In Tameezuddin @Tammu vs State of (NCT) of Delhi (2009) 15 SCC 566 it was held as under:

> "It is true that in a case of rape the evidence of the prosecutrix must be given predominant consideration, but to hold that this evidence has to be accepted even if the story is improbable and belies logic, would be doing violence to the very principles which govern the appreciation of evidence in a criminal matter. We are of the opinion that story is indeed improbable."

42. In Narender Kumar Vs. State (NCT of Delhi) (2012) 7 SCC 171 the Hon'ble Apex Court held as under:-

> "21.....However, if the court finds it difficult to accept the version of the prosecutrix on its face value, it may search for evidence, direct or substantial, which may lend assurance to her testimony. (Vide: Vimal Suresh Kamble v. Chaluverapinake Apal S.P. & Anr., AIR 2003 SC 818; and Vishnu v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 2006 SC 508).
> *22. Where evidence of the prosecutrix is found suffering from serious infirmities and inconsistencies with other material, prosecutrix making deliberate improvements on material point with a view to rule out consent on her part and there being no injury on her person even though her version may be otherwise, no reliance can be placed upon her evidence. >
> 23. In Jai Krishna Mandal & Anr. v. State of Jharkhand, (2010) 14 SCC 534, this Court while dealing with the issue held:
> The only evidence of rape was the statement of the prosecutrix herself and when this evidence was read in its totality, the story projected by the prosecutrix was so improbable that it could not be believed.
> 29 However, even in a case of rape, the onus is always on the prosecution to prove, affirmatively each ingredient of the offence it seeks to establish and such onus never shifts. It is no part of the duty of the defence to explain as to how and why in a rape case the victim and other witness have falsely implicated the accused. Prosecution case has to stand on its own legs and cannot take support from the weakness of the case of defence. However great the suspicion against the accused and however strong the moral belief and conviction of the court, unless the offence of the accused is established beyond reasonable doubt on the basis of legal evidence and material on the record, he cannot be convicted for an offence. There is an initial presumption of innocence of the accused and the prosecution has to bring home the offence against the accused by reliable evidence. The accused is entitled to the benefit of every reasonable doubt. (Vide: Tukaram & Anr. v. The State of Maharashtra,, AIR 1979 SC 185; and Uday v. State of Karnataka, AIR 2003 SC 1639).

30. The prosecution has to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and cannot take support from the weakness of the case of defence. There must be proper legal evidence and material on record to record the conviction of the accused. Conviction can be based on sole testimony of the prosecutrix provided it lends assurance of her testimony. However, in case the court has reason not to accept the version of prosecutrix on its face value, it may look for corroboration. In case the evidence is read in its totality and the story projected by the prosecutrix is found to be improbable, the prosecutrix case becomes liable to be rejected."

43. Though during her statement Ex. PW1/A she had claimed that accused made sexual intercourse with her at his residence in his village against her wishes, however, during her deposition she claimed that the sexual relationship were made with her wishes. Though she qualified the same by claiming that she was very young and was not having any free will, however, it is to be seen that according to the victim her date of birth is 10.05.1980 and she was around 17 years old at the relevant time. Though the victim claimed her age to be 17 years, however, prosecution has not brought on record any document which could convincingly prove the exact age of the victim or that she was indeed 17 years old. No birth certificate or municipal record or hospital record was ever brought on record to prove/establish the exact age of the victim. The only document relied upon by the prosecution to establish the age of the victim is Mark A. Mark A is a photocopy of her school leaving certificate which was got identified through the victim's father during his examination u/s 299 Cr.P.C. Apart from getting it identified as Mark A, during the testimony of PW2, prosecution did not bother to examine any witness from the school or to produce the original of the said document. According to the said document the victim's date of birth is 10.05.1985, as against this in Ex. PW1/DA victim and her father had claimed her date of birth is to be 10.05.1980 while also claiming that she is about 17 years old. As against these two documents, in complaint Ex. PW2/1 the victim's age is mentioned as 15 years. Furthermore in Ex. PW1/A she had claimed her age to be 14 years. All this creates grave doubts as regards the exact age of the victim.

44. Prosecution also failed to explain as to on what basis the victim's date of birth was entered as 10.05.1985 in Mark A. According to Mark A victim had taken admission in 6th class in the said school in the year 1996 and she left the same in 1997. No record of the previous/primary school attended by the victim was ever brought on record by the prosecution. Victim must have definitely studied in other schools but for the reasons best known to it, the prosecution did not produce any such record from any such school. This is despite the fact that during her testimony the victim had claimed that she had studied upto 5th class in a MCD school near her house. Considering the nature of allegations and the ambiguity as regards the date of birth of the victim, non production of any authentic document on the basis of which date of birth of the victim was entered as 10.05.1985 in Mark A and non production of previous school records renders the prosecution case as regards the age of the victim shaky and untrustworthy. Prosecution could not convincingly prove that she was indeed less than 18 years of age.

45. In State (Govt. of NCT of Delhi) v. Shailesh Kumar (2019) 260 DLT 344 (DB) the Hon'ble High Court of Delhi has held:

> ".....23. In the present case, the father of the victim, PW-5 deposed that he did not know the date of birth of his daughter as he was illiterate, nor was he in a position to state her current age. He stated that he got the victim admitted in the school in class-I in the village and at that time, she was about 3-4 years old. In his cross-examination, PW-5 admitted that he did not have any proof regarding his daughter's date of birth. It is therefore clear that the father of the victim had not submitted any document to the school at the time of getting his daughter admitted in class-I, on 12.08.2005, to establish her date of birth as 10.01.2000, as recorded by the school. He was candid enough to state that being illiterate, he did not know the date of birth of the victim and that she was between 3-4 years old when she was admitted in class-I.
> 24. In the absence of any primary material based on which the age of the victim was recorded in the school register, it is not possible to accept her date of birth as 10.01.2000. Moreover, even the teacher from the school in question, who had appeared as PW-3, had stated that he had given a handwritten document to the police on 17.12.2014 (Ex.PW3/C), wherein he had recorded that when a child attains the age of 5+ years, the parents approach the school for their admission. If one goes by the said statement, then the testimony of the victim's father to the effect that he had got her admitted in class-I when she was about 3-4 years, cannot be accepted, as it is premised on mere guess work.
> 25. In Brij Mohan Singh (supra), the Supreme Court observed that in actual life, it frequently happens that persons give false age of a child at the time of admission in the school so that later in life, he would have an advantage when seeking public service for which the minimum age for eligibility is often prescribed. In Vishu v. State of Maharashtra reported as (2006) 1 SCC 283, while dealing with a similar issue, the Supreme Court had yet again observed that very often parents furnish incorrect date of birth to the school authorities to make up the age in order to secure admission for their children. For determining the age of the child, the best evidence is of his/her parents, if it is supported by unimpeachable documents.

.....27. We are of the opinion that in the absence of any material document based on which the entry of the date of birth of the victim has been made in the school register, mere production of the school register that records inter alia her date of birth as 10.01.2000, would not suffice. The victim was admitted in the school by her father, an illiterate person, who himself admits that he did not have any proof regarding the date of birth of his daughter. The facts mentioned above show that the prosecution has not been able to discharge the burden cast on it to prove that the age of the victim was below 18 years at the time of the alleged commission of offence and that being the only ground taken in this appeal to assail the impugned judgment, we do not find any reason to interfere in the subsequent findings returned by the trial court rejecting the prosecution version that on 25.09.2014, the respondent had kidnapped the victim with the intention to compel her to marry him against her will and he had committed penetrative sexual assault upon her and raped her. Once it is held that the girl was over 18 years of age and competent to give her consent, the question of the respondent raping her does not arise……..".

46. In the State (GNCT of Delhi) v. Mohd. Irfan (2017) 242 DLT 237 (DB) the Hon'ble High Court of Delhi held:

".....13. At the same time, it has been held in Birad Mal Singhvi v. Anand Purohit, 1988 Supp SCC 604 (paragraph 15) that an entry relating to date of birth made in a school register is not of much evidentiary value to prove the age of the person in the absence of the material on which the age was recorded. [See also State (Govt. of NCT of Delhi) v. Charan Singh, 2017 SCC OnLine Del 8186 (paragraphs 16-21)]

14. We may also notice a judgment of the Punjab and Haryana High Court in Jaipal Singh v. State of Haryana, (2003) 2 RCR (Cri) 310 (DB): 2002 SCC OnLine P&H 598 (paragraphs 11 and 12) wherein the Court had disbelieved the school certificate stating the age of the prosecutrix to be 15 years which was conflicting with the age mentioned in the FIR, MLC and as stated by the prosecutrix herself and her father and the entry was not based on any birth certificate but upon a statement from her father and held the prosecutrix to be a major on the date of the incident."

47. Age of the victim was a crucial aspect, which the prosecution failed to convincingly prove. Allegations of kidnapping could not be substantiated by the prosecution either. According to the complaint Ex. PW2/1 her father had claimed that the victim had taken cash as well as jewellery worth Rs. 10,000/- at the time when she had went away from the house on 19.04.1997. Victim made no such claim and the prosecution case is absolutely silent as regards recovery of any cash or jewellery articles. Nonetheless this itself creates doubts upon the prosecution case of kidnapping as it somehow point towards the victim's preparation, intention to leave the house. Though the victim claimed that she had left the house on the asking of the accused and he had been alluring her claiming that he loves her and wants to marry her, however, during her cross-examination she stated "Perhaps I had not told to my family members that chottu used to allure me to marry with him. I had not made any complaint to any authority in this regard". If indeed the accused was alluring her she could have and rather should have complained to her parents. Her not doing so coupled with the contents of Ex. PW2/1 dismisses the prosecution case of kidnapping altogether. This is more so when the victim did not claim during her testimony as recorded on 19.09.2016 or during her examination u/s 299 Cr.P.C. on 21.08.2004 or Ex. PW1/A that the accused had forcefully taken her with him. It is not her case nor of the prosecution that the accused had taken the victim against her will or against her consent/wish. It is not her case that she had resisted the so claimed taking of her by the accused or raised hue and cry or sought help.

According to the victim she was taken to the number of places but not even once she sought anyone/public's help or raised any hue & cry, which in my opinion she would have definitely done so had she been forcibly taken by the accused or kidnapped by the accused. Considering the age of the victim no case of kidnapping u/s 363 or 366 IPC is made out against the accused.

48. It has been held in Thokorlal D. Vadgama Vs. The State of Gujarat 1973 AIR 2313 as under:-

The statutory language suggests that if the minor leaves her parental home, completely uninfluenced by any promise, offer or inducement emanating from the guilty party, then the latter cannot be considered to have committed the offence as defined in s. 361, I.P.C. But if the, 'guilty party has laid a foundation by inducement, allurement or threat, etc. and if this can be considered to have influenced the minor or weighed: with her in leaving her guardian's custody or keeping and going to the guilty party, then prima facie it would be, difficult for him to plead innocence on the ground that the minor had voluntarily come to him. If he had at an earlier stage solicited or induced her in any manner to leave her father's protection, by conveying or indicating an encouraging suggestion that he would give her shelter, then the mere circumstance that his act was not the immediate cause of her leaving her parental home or guardian's custody would constitute no valid defence and would not absolve him.

We may however briefly advert to the decision in S. Varadaraja v. State of Madras (1965) 1 SCR 243, on which Shri Dhebar placed principal reliance, Shri Dhebar relied on the following passage at page 245 of the report :-
"It will thus be, seen that taking or enticing away a minor out of the keeping of a lawful guardian is an essential ingredient of the offence of kidnapping. Here, we are not concerned with enticement but what, we have to find out is whether the part played by the appellant amounts to "taking', out of the keeping of the lawful guardian of 'Savitri, We have no doubt that though Savitri had been left by S. Natarajan at the house of- his relative K. Natarajan, she still continued to be in the lawful keeping of the former but then the question remains as to what is it which the appellant did that constitutes in law "taking". There is not a word in the deposition of Savitri from which an inference could be drawn that she left the house of K.

Natarajan at the instance or even a suggestion of the appellant. In fact she candidly admits that on the morning of October 1st, she herself telephoned to the appellant to meet her in his car at a certain place, went up to that place and finding him waiting in the car got into that car of her own accord. No doubt, she says that she did not tell the appellant where to go and that it was the appellant himself who drove the car to Guindy and then to Mylapore and other places. Further, Savitri has stated that she had decided to marry the appellant".

From this passage, Shri Dhebar tried to infer that the case before us is similar to that case and, therefore, Mohini herself went to the appellant and the appellant had absolutely no involvement in Mohini's leaving her parents' home. Now the relevant test laid down in the case cited is to be found at page 248 :-

"It must, however, be borne in mind that there is a distinction between "taking" and allowing a minor to accompany a person. The two expressions are not synonymous though we would like to guard ourselves from laying down that in no conceivable circumstance can the two be regarded as meaning ,the same thing for the purposes of s. 361 of the Indian Penal Code. We would limit ourselves to a case like the present where the minor alleged to have been taken by the accused person left her father's protection knowing and having capacity to know the full import of what, she was doing voluntarily joins the accused person. In such a case we do not think theft the accused can be said to have taken her away from the keeping of her lawful guardian. Something more has to be shown in a case of this kind and that is some kind of inducement held out by the accused person or an active participation by him in the formation of the intention of the minor to leave the house of the gurdian.

49. In the case at hand there are serious doubts that the accused had taken the victim with him, in view of Ex. PW1/DA. Nonetheless in Balasahib Vs. The State of Maharashtra 1994 CRLJ 3044 the court was confronted with the situation where it was found that minor victim had accompanied the accused voluntarily stayed with him in the very presence of his family members and there was consent on the part of the victim. The Hon'ble Maharashtra High Court quoted with approval an extract from the book of Ratan Lal and Dhiraj Lal on the law of crimes to the effect :– " A minor may not be competent to give her consent to her taking but a minor is certainly competent to leave the protection of her guardian of his or her own accord. Therefore, it is immaterial whether the girl alleged to be kidnapped was a minor or not in so far as her leaving the house of her own accord is concerned. If a minor girl leaves her home without any persuasion or inducement held out by the accused so that she has got fairly away from home and then goes to him, his not restoring her to her home is no infringement of the law. To sustain a conviction, the prosecution has to prove that the accused had some active part in the minor leaving her guardian's house. The offence under Section 363 is not a continuing one and it really consists in the initial act of taking her from the keeping of her lawful guardian."

50. In Rameshwar Giri Vs. State 2014 SCC Online Del 3286 it was held as under:-

15. As noted supra, the victim was aged 15 years and 9 months on the date of the offence meaning thereby that she was at the age of discretion; she was studying in the 7th standard and as such it cannot be said that she did not know the consequence of her act. More so, this is not a case where there was any persuasion on the part of the accused which can amount to a „taking" or „enticing" the victim as is the language contained in Section 361 of the IPC. Version of PW-5 is coherent in this regard. She has stated that while she was standing near the public park, the accused invited her to accompany her for sightseeing and she accordingly did so. In these circumstances, it cannot be said that the accused was guilty of taking the victim out of the keeping of her lawful guardianship; she was admittedly standing at the public park when he invited her to join him for sightseeing. There was no active persuasion on the part of the accused; it was an invitation extended by him to the girl which was accepted by her.

16 As held by the Supreme Court in AIR 1965 SC 942 S. Varadarajan Vs. State such an act would not tantamount to „taking". The observations of the Apex Court in this context are as under:-

"The offence of "kidnapping from lawful guardianship" is defined thus in the first paragraph of s. 361 of the Indian Penal code :

"Whoever takes or entices any minor under sixteen years of age if a male, or under eighteen years of age if a female, or any person of unsound mind, out of the keeping of the lawful guardian of such minor or person of unsound mind, without the consent of such guardian, is said to kidnap such minor or person from lawful guardianship."

8. It will thus be seen that taking or enticing away a minor out of the keeping of a lawful guardian is an essential ingredient of the offence of kidnapping..... .....

11. It must, however, be borne in mind that there is a distinction between "taking : and allowing a minor to accompany a person. The two expression are not synonymous though we would like to guard ourselves from laying down that in no conceivable circumstance can the two be regarded as meaning the same thing for the purposes of s. 361 of the Indian Penal Code. We would limit ourselves to a case like the present where the minor alieged to have been taken by the accused person left her father's protection knowing and having capacity to know the full import of what she was doing voluntarily joins the accused person. In such a case we do not think that the accused can be said to have taken her away from the keeping of her lawful guardian. Something more has to be shown in a case of this kind and that is some kind of inducement held out by the accused person or an active participation by him in the formation of the intention of the minor to leave the house of the guardian.

12. It would, however, be sufficient if the prosecution establishes that though immediately prior to the minor leaving the father's protection no active part was played by the accused, he had at some earlier stage solicited or persuaded the minor to do so. In our opinion if evidence to establish one of those things is lacking it would not be legitimate to infer that the accused is guilty of taking the minor out of the keeping of the lawful guardian merely because after she has actually left her guardian's house or a house where her guardian had kept her, joined the accused and the accused helped her in her design not to return to her guardian's house by taking her along with him from place to place. No doubt, the part played by the accused could be regarded as facilitating the fulfillment of the intention of the girl. That part, in our opinion, falls short of an inducement to the minor to slip out of the keeping of her lawful guardian and is, therefore, not tantamount to "taking". "

17. This version is further fortified by the fact that the victim was admittedly known to the accused as he was residing in the same street since the last 2 years. The fact that the accused was known to the victim is also admitted by both PW-6 and PW-7 i.e. the mother and father of the victim. PW-5 had accompanied the appellant for sightseeing; they did sightseeing for one hour in Delhi; then by a TSR, the appellant took her to the railway station; people were gathered there to purchase tickets. Tickets were purchased by the appellant from the railway station from where he took her to Bihar which would be a more than one day journey. The victim stayed in the village of the appellant 2-3 days. She was never threatened by the persons living in that house. 5-6 ladies were also present. Other persons from the village also came to meet her. The MLC of the victim also shows that there was no injury upon her person. This corroborates the argument of the learned counsel for the appellant that the victim was not subjected to any force.

18. This Court thus necessarily draws the conclusion that the victim was a consenting party with the accused. The offence of rape as defined under Section 375 of the IPC (unamended) is not made out as for the purposes of rape to qualify as a minor, the victim should be less than 16 years. As noted supra, the victim was aged 15 years & 9 months on the date of the offence i.e. just about three months short of the age of 16. Being in the age of discretion; this Court is of the view that she was conscious of her act in accompanying the accused and it cannot be said to be an act of force. The accused is entitled to an acquittal for the offence under Section 376 of the IPC. He is accordingly acquitted of the said charge.

19. Even for the offence under Section 363/366 of the IPC since the victim had accompanied the appellant for sightseeing on her own and having met him at a public place, the ingredients of Sections 363 & 366 which necessarily entail a "taking" or "enticing from the lawful guardianship" is not met."

51. In Ranbir @ Kala Vs. State CRL. MC. 1746/2014 dated 10.07.2015 the Hon'ble High Court of Delhi quashed FIR registered u/s 363 IPC and observed as under:-

"Full-Bench of this Court in Court on Its Own Motion (Lajja Devi) & Ors. v. State, 2012 (3) JCC 148 has authoritatively held as under:-
"If the girl is more than 16 years, and the girl makes a statement that she went with her consent and the statement and consent is without any force, coercion or undue influence, the statement could be accepted and Court will be within its power to quash the proceedings under Section 363 or 376 IPC. Here again no straight jacket formula can be applied. The Court has to be cautious, for the girl has right to get the marriage nullified under Section 3 of the PCM Act. Attending circumstances including the maturity and understanding of the girl, social background of girl, age of the girl and boy etc. have to be taken into consideration."

52. In Kuldeep Tyagi Vs. State NCT of Delhi, 2013 (135) DRJ 613, the Hon'ble High Court of Delhi held as under :

"Penal Code, 1860 Section 376 - Rape - Consent - On the verge of attaining majority - Sufficient intelligence to understand the significance and moral quality of the act she was consenting to - Friendship with the accused and had no grievance against this conduct and behavior at any time- She accompanied the accused with his friends to different places at Shimla, Nainital and Mussorie – She never informed her parents and kept it a secret – She had physical relations with the accused at different places with her consent without any resistance - She never lodged any complaint against the accused for cheating her, never insisted the accused to marry her and never informed her parents about her friendship with the accused and his promise to marry – Case of voluntary consent - Conviction set aside - Appeal allowed.

53. In Vijay Kumar Vs. State of NCT of Delhi, CRL.A. 325/2013 decided on 14.08.2015, it was held that when the victim accompanied the accused willingly, did not raise any alarm, consensually had sexual intercourse with him, lived in his native place for 8–9 days, had accompanied the accused with her consent, the accused was acquitted of the charge of the offence of rape.

54. Reliance may also be placed upon Shahanwaj Alam Vs. State (GNCT of Delhi) CRL.A 556/2013 dated 08.09.2015,Vikas Kumar Vs. State CRL. A 1000/13 dated 18.05.2016 and Mehmood @ Mudia Vs. State 1998 Crl. L.J. 2408. The exact age of the victim being uncertain and her own claim that she was 17 years old in Ex. PW1/DA coupled with other facts and circumstances points towards the direction that in case she had gone with the accused, which is otherwise highly doubtful, still she had attained the age of discretion and hence she knew exactly what she was doing, she knew the repercussions which could follow.

55. Prosecution case may be true but criminal jurisprudence says that prosecution case must be true. There is a long distance between "may be true" and "must be true". It is cardinal principle of criminal jurisprudence that an accused is presumed to be innocent. The burden lies on the prosecution to prove the guilt of accused beyond reasonable doubt. The prosecution is under a legal obligation to prove each and every ingredient of offence beyond any doubt, unless otherwise so provided by any statute. This general burden never shifts, it always rests on the prosecution. In a criminal trial however intriguing may be the facts and circumstances of the case, the charges made against the accused must be proved beyond all reasonable doubts and the requirement of proof cannot lie in the realm of surmises and conjectures. Reliance may be placed upon the law laid down in Hansraj Vs. State of Haryana (2004) 12 SCC 257, Daya Ram v. State of Haryana, 1997(1) R.C.R.(Criminal) 662), Partap v. State of U.P. (SC) 1976 A.I.R. (SC) 966, Vijayee Singh v. State of U.P. (SC) 1990(3) S.C.C. 190, Nasir Sikander Shaikh v. State of Maharashtra (SC) 2005 Cri.L.J. 2621 and Jarnail Singh v. State of Punjab (SC) 1996(1) R.C.R.(Criminal) 465.

56. Therefore in view of above discussion, the accused is entitled for acquittal for the offences he has been charged of.

57. I order accordingly.
